Mayor in Burley Hits Sen. Barlow Over Power Bill

BURLEY, Jan. 24—An angry attack on Cassia county Sen. K. C. Barlow, for his support of a bill which would give power of Idaho cities in extending municipal utility service to adjoining areas, was made Monday by Burley Mayor J. Leonard Salmon. Salmon, speaking at the Burley Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting, accused Barlow of "bad manners and complete disregard for facts," course approved by the commissioner of law enforcement. The amended bill was a compromise between groups which wanted the minimum age boosted to 16 and farmer-lawmakers who did not want the present law changed. The measure now goes to the senate.

either because a Burley city official "dared to challenge him in the last election" or revenge because the city annexed land north of the Snake river instead of "placing the emphasis to the southwest where Burley owns a 40-acre tract with a quarter of a mile of the city limits."

The Burley mayor said Barlow had contacted him on several occasions "pursuant to the early development of that tract to his financial profit . . ."

The controversy stems from Barlow's support in the legislature of a bill which would, in effect, place Idaho municipalities under an anti-pirating act passed by the 1959 legislature.

This would affect Burley's current efforts to supply electric power to an area the city has annexed north of the Snake river. Rural Electric company and utility light and power company oppose the city in this matter.

A suit was filed in district court to resolve the issue and a decision was returned in favor of the city of Burley. The opposing power companies then obtained a stay injunction to preserve the "status quo" until an appeal could be heard by the supreme court.

In his speech Monday, Salmon

Bottlers Plan 3-Day Parley In Twin Falls

LONDON, Jan. 24 (UPI)—The largest check in British banking history—$19,565,845 pounds and 22 shillings (roughly $334,867,000)—changed hands yesterday to the U.S. Ford company's purchase of British Ford stock held by Britons.

Today the check was split into 10,000 smaller ones to be sent to the former shareholders.

Property Tax Discussed for Meeting Here

Main controversy at the legislative discussion at the Twin Falls American Legion hall Tuesday morning revolved around the proposed 30 per cent statewide property tax evaluation proposal.

Some 30 persons attended the meeting sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. Carl Irwin, former state representative, presided.

The proposed property tax bill is the result of public utilities pressuring for a more equal distribution of the tax load. At present, the real property tax assessment is decided at the county level. The bill would make the assessment equal statewide.

In effect, it would not increase revenue but would merely shift the tax load, Irwin explained.

The utilities have started court proceedings to get the tax load shifted so the decision must be either change the present tax setup with legislation or wait for court decision, it was noted.

The group voted to wait for a court decision. Other matters discussed included the proposal bill requiring a college degree before a person could be granted a certified public accountant's license in Idaho. There was not vote on this bill, but the opinion was expressed that the bill would hurt the Twin Falls Business college which, while it is certified, cannot grant a four-year college degree.

U.S. Jobless Toll Is Called 'Grave'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (UPI)—Administration aides expect the nation's total unemployment to climb to 5.5 million this month, an increase of about one million from December.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg yesterday termed the situation "very grave" and said his department was working on proposals to increase unemployment benefits.

But the labor secretary emphasized that the new administration still was not ready with recommendations despite its "deep concern" about the unemployment picture and "a strong feeling the federal government must extend this in area."

Goldberg disclosed that he had given Kennedy the latest unemployment insurance figures at a White House meeting yesterday.

Compromise Bill Ups Driver Age to 15; Vote Is 48-10

BOISE, Jan. 24 (AP and UPI)—Idaho's house of representatives approved today a boost in the minimum driving age from 14 to 15. The vote was 48 to 10. The measure, however, would permit 15-year-olds to be licensed only if they had passed a driving course approved by the commissioner of law enforcement. The amended bill was a compromise between groups which wanted the minimum age boosted to 16 and farmer-lawmakers who did not want the present law changed.

The measure now goes to the senate.

"This is the best compromise we could arrive at," said Rep. James W. Monroe, D., Ne. Perce. "We would be remiss if we went home without taking some action toward improving highway safety."

Rep. Allan Shepard, R., Ada, described the measure as "only the first step, and maybe only a small step" in tightening Idaho's traffic laws.

Rep. Pete T. Canarusa, R., Blaine, said that if the law passes it will eventually have to be amended to include licenses for occupational needs and hardships.

House Minority Leader C. H. Higer, D., Gem, said the measure was "getting the cart before the horse."

Higer said the house should provide for a driver education program before passing a law which would require the 15-year-olds to pass a training course before being licensed.

He voiced the sentiments of many of the measure's opponents. Driver education courses are now offered in approximately 15 percent of the state's secondary schools. In addition, there are some privately-operated courses.

Both Governor Smiley and Commissioner of Law Enforcement E. R. Hooper favor a minimum driving age of 16.

Rep. Alvin B. Benson, D., Owyhee, told the house that it would now be incumbent on the bill's sponsors to back a driver training program." Otherwise, he said, the measure would prevent many 15-year-olds from driving.

The senate reconsidered, then passed again, the measure eliminating present requirements that appointive officials of first class cities must reside in the cities they serve. The first vote Monday was 22 to 21. But after reconsideration today the bill passed 25 to 19.

The senate also approved bills revising the definition of game birds; requiring all printed election material to show the name of the person or organization responsible for it; and making it unlawful for persons under 21 to buy or drink alcoholic liquor.

Two Democrats spoke out against criticism by Republican Gov. Robert E. Smiley of the senate's action yesterday in refusing to approve a proposed constitutional amendment eliminating the state superintendent of public instruction as an elected official.

Sen. J. Ray Cox, Jr., D., Kootenai, the Democratic leader, said "no statements by the governor or any one else will deter us from voting against legislation in which we do not believe."

Sen. R. M. Wetherell, D., Elmore, who was one of five Democrats who voted for the proposal, said he did not believe members of his party could be accused of being "obstructionists," which he said he construed Smiley's criticism as implying.

Idaho's Highway Toll Reaches 13

BOISE, Jan. 24 (AP)—Idaho's traffic death toll stood at 13 today, the result of the death of a 54-year-old Boise man in a head-on collision west of Boise last night on U. S. highway 20.

State police said Don G. Germer was killed when the car he was driving struck a pickup truck head-on when he attempted to pass another car.

He noted that non-chamber members are welcome to attend the banquet. Reservations may be obtained by calling the chamber office at REDWOOD 3-3974.

The driver of the pickup, John McKinney, 34, Boise, was not seriously injured, police said.

The compact, approved at a meeting of the Columbia-Interstate compact commission in Spokane last October, essentially is to facilitate the orderly, integrated and comprehensive development, use, conservation and control of the water resources of the Columbia River basin.

It also is to "further inter-governmental cooperation."

Under the proposed compact, a commission would be set up to discuss the development of the land, water and related resources of the basin. This commission would consist of three representatives from Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington ratify it if okayed by an act of congress.

The compact will also be binding on Nevada, Utah and Wyoming if it is ratified by congress and the legislatures of these three states elect to then put it into effect.

There are 14 articles to the compact, including those that outline the priority in future development.

Meanwhile, it was learned that a special message is expected sometime this week from the governor's office on this compact.

R. P. Parry, Twin Falls, has served as chairman of the Idaho delegation to the commission.

Other Gem State members, besides Parry, are E. B. Campbell, Bonneville Ferry; Alex O. Coleman, St. Anthony, and George L. Crookham, Jr., Caldwell.

The Gem state has often had water problems. Shortages developed in the Boise valley as early as 1924 and subsequently in the Payette and Weiser areas where crop losses ran into the millions of dollars.

And as the Columbia continues to flow over the lands of the Northwest, man is continually wondering and plotting how to best use and develop this "water plant" and its tributaries.

Cruise Ship Pirated In Action Against Portuguese Leader

Armed rebels who seized the cruise ship Santa Maria in an uprising against the Portuguese government dodged American and British warships and planes in the Caribbean today but the 600 passengers—many of them Americans—were reported safe. Earlier reports said they were being "terrorized" by armed pirates. The 20,906-ton vacation liner with 600 passengers and 300 crew, men appeared to have vanished. A U. S. navy station in Trinidad, speculated the Santa Maria may be hiding in some corner as pirates did in the days of old when they sailed the Spaniards' main 200 years ago.

Up to 1 p.m. (EST), the navy said, the search force had been unable to locate the liner.

A radio message from the commander of occupation forces aboard the Santa Maria reported all was "tranquill." Personal messages addressed to relatives in the United States confirmed this, the RCA marine radio station at Chatham, Mass., said.

The U. S. navy announced in San Juan it had nine U. S. aircraft searching for the ship including four hurricane hunter planes, three P2 Neptune and two Albatross amphibians in addition to two destroyers and a British frigate.

The navy said the orders were for the destroyers to overtake the Santa Maria and send a boarding party aboard if necessary to find out if an act of piracy was committed. However, a spokesman said the navy would be unable to act if the ship reaches the territorial waters of another nation.

In Washington, a state department spokesman said the United States had agreed to help Portugal recapture the ship "in accordance school buildings and what the loss of one of them would mean to the community when all facilities are jammed.

The inspector said a complete sprinkler system ranked next to direct egress from the building. He declared such a system "the most logical, feasible and economical" to check fire and permit evacuation and to protect the building. Higgins noted there were 4,000 major school fires in the U. S. in 1958. He also said he would like to see storage and maintenance quarters for the school district away from all school buildings.

Supt. Ernest H. Ragland reported Thomas C. Peavey had estimated a sprinkler system would bring an annual insurance savings of about $350. Savings of an automatic fire alarm system were estimated at $200 annually. The latter system would cost about $20 a month to maintain.

In other action, the board voted to rehire Superintendent Ragland for two years. Asst. Supt. Arthur M. Kleinkopf for one year and all principals for one year. Salaries will be determined later. The annual audit was approved. The board voted against sending guidance personnel, Boyd Lowe and Kenneth Kall, to the Denver convention of the American Personnel and Guidance association.

The state department of education notified the board the local district has been fully accredited. Minor deficiencies were noted on a report termed "No. 1" by Kleinkopf.

T.F. County GOP Women's Group Officers Are Picked

Mrs. Ted Scott was elected president of the Women's Republican club of Twin Falls county during the regular monthly meeting of the group Monday.

Other new officers are Mrs. W. L. Lanting, vice president; Florence Sanderson, secretary, and Mrs. J. Alfred May, treasurer. Outgoing officers include Mrs. L. James Koutnik, president; Mrs. T. W. Stivers, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Vanaunder, secretary, and Mrs. Carl Irwin, treasurer.

Douglas Kramer, Twin Falls attorney, told the women the three basic beliefs of the philosophy of Americanism are national sovereignty, individual freedom and individual responsibility to the government, not the government's responsibility to the people.

He noted that many problems face the United States today, one of which is the world court. This court is composed of 15 judges, one of whom is an American.

Kramer expressed concern that the United States might relinquish rights to the world court, which has built-in veto power. He commented that it is a possibility that the majority of the judges of the court may vote for the communistic side of a question in a future case.

He also discussed the necessity of maintaining the loyalty oath for college students who receive direct grants from the federal treasury. Kramer stated that the immigration quotas of the United States should be kept down in view of the five and one-half million unemployed persons in this country.

Freeman's announcement did not indicate how much would be purchased. He said, however, that shipments of canned pork and gravy, dried edible pea beans, and dried whole egg solids will be available to states for distribution to the needy by late February or early March.

The food distribution program, handled locally by state and local welfare agencies, has been moving flour, corn meal, non-fat dried milk, rice, lard and butter about 3.5 million persons in 42 states. Kennedy's order directed that the food donations be doubled.

There was no immediate indication of how many additional persons would be brought into the program by today's move expanding it to foods which are not currently in government-owned surplus stocks.

Agriculture department officials have pointed out, however, that when the food variety is expanded more localities take advantage of the program—in which they must pay local distribution costs—and more individuals apply for the free food.

Agencies will include a study of the special methods and materials appropriate to health education; the criteria for the selection of content for such courses at the elementary, junior high school and senior high school level.

Subsequent class sessions will be held at a place which is closest to the center of the area of enrollment.

Wyoming Can Have Private Trade Stamp

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 24 — The Wyoming supreme court has ruled that individual merchants can issue their own trading stamps but said the general retail trading stamp companies are still barred from doing business in Wyoming.

By its action the court agreed that the entire 1959 law passed by the legislature was constitutional. It had ruled Nov. 29, 1960, that the section dealing with individual merchants was unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the stamp companies interpreted this ruling to mean the court felt the section was discriminatory.

The court said it had never used the word discriminatory but had merely felt the section was "void" as running counter to the provision for uniformity of legislation.

It reversed this ruling, saying the exception of individual merchants from the ban was reasonable and proper because their activity amounts to nothing more than giving a discount on purchases from the merchant's own stock.

Double Standard Of Morality Is Sermon's Topic

BUHL, Jan. 24 — A great deal of present day juvenile delinquency stems from adults trying to set a double standard of morality, stressed The Rev. Dr. John N. MacIntosh, pastor, First Presbyterian church, Buhl, in a sermon delivered Sunday.

"We tell our children to obey the speed limits, then go out and push our own pedal to the floor," he said. "We want our children against cheating and then go out and brag about clipping our neighbors."

"We tell our children it is wrong to stay away from church, then leave our pew empty on Sunday morning," he continued.

MODEST, ADEQUATE FOUR

The labor department has, it now appears, produced a handsome statistical portrait of nobody, a fictional "family of four." Their lives and times are reflected in the figures released as the "modest but adequate" family budget.

Quite a few people have accepted these figures without question, and have used them as yardsticks for measuring social welfare or for demands in union negotiations. But very few seem to have bothered to find out what the statistics mean, or how they were come by. From official explanations, this is the picture:

Behind the figures are a mythical papa and mama and a son, 13, and daughter, 8. From first glance they appear odd. For instance, son who presumably is growing like a sunflower, "consumes" one fifth of a top-coat each year. This means, presumably, that a topcoat bought when he was eight still fits him, or that one bought for him now will serve, modestly and adequately, until he is 18.

Daughter, 8, appears a little more normal, and "consumes" about a third of a coat each year.

The whole family is precisely 10 years behind the times, carefully buying the things that consumers were shown to buy in a 1950 study. Few then bought TV sets and air conditioners, and no-one then bought a U.S. compact car. Less pre-processed food was available.

Although most people in their income bracket are buying their own homes on time, our modest, adequate family, keeps on renting. This makes them typical of only a microscopic percentage of the population, when their number, age group and other circumstances are taken into consideration.

They are highly successful tax evaders, apparently, because all the city, state and federal taxes they pay come to less than the federal tax alone for ordinary people of their income.

What do they eat? They seem to eat a special diet recommended by the National Research Council, sometimes, and other times to eat a special minimum diet which will sustain life. Nobody else eats like this.

And so here is a glimpse of the federal government's modest but adequate four, who never lived, and never will, but who will breed statistics to lead astray serious arguments on serious subjects.

FRIENDLY TRANSFER

Despite the almost ideologically belligerent attitudes of the men who swapped the nation's two top jobs, it is probable there has not been a more friendly or cooperative transfer of government power and responsibility in the twentieth century.

Eisenhower was hurt by some of the charges which President Kennedy and other Democrats hurled against him during the campaign. He went out of his way in his several final messages to refute them, and to warn against adoption of the opposition's policies-in-the-years-ahead.

But President Kennedy's two requests for his advice have profoundly affected Ike, who is an extremely touchy and sensitive person. In addition, there has been the utmost courtesy and understanding in the conferences between the incoming and the outgoing cabinet members.

The shift is quite a contrast from those between men who could hardly bear to ride or talk together under similar circumstances—Taft and Wilson, Wilson and Harding, Hoover and Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower.

There may or may not be any deep or permanent significance in this kind of an exchange of power. Temporarily, however, it sets a good example for nations which make such shifts through assassinations or revolutions or exiling of the heads of the previous regime.

LOFTY COMPARISON

In commenting on the design of the proposed FDR Memorial, a member of the commission handling the project made a remark which reflects their grandiose ideas and plans with respect to honoring FDR.

"These tablets," he said, "remind me of the tablets handed to Moses on Mt. Sinai."

It is not the first time that FDR was likened to Moses. During the 1936 campaign, a Negro-preacher-made-the-same-comparison, only to bring a protest from a member of the congregation. When challenged to make good his statement, the preacher countered:

"I'll tell you why Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a greater leader than Moses."

"Moses told his people to 'Follow me and I shall take you to the promised land.' And I took forty years of hardship to do it."

Roosevelt said "Sit where you are, and I shall bring the promised land to you." And he did it in four years. That's why he is a greater leader than Moses."

The lack of good sites for future Presidents is emphasized by the current campaign at Washington against the erection of any more statues in its parks and triangles and other vacant sites. The place is so cluttered now with unsightly figures that it begins to look like Madame Tussaud's waxworks in London.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — The nomination of two United States senators and two former senators to both national tickets last year has precipitated a power struggle between several congressional delegations and local bosses for leadership of their state organizations. In other words, the capitol hill blocs are feeling their oats.

The senators involved in this movement include men who generally sweep their states by huge majorities in years when the political home guard fails to deliver the vote for the head of the national ticket, for their gubernatorial offering or for the state legislatures.

Although the most spectacular quarrel of this nature involves the rival factions in New Jersey, where the liberal GOP Senator Case is often at odds with the regular organization, the same sort of dispute is simmering in several other

Ray Tucker sections of the country where similar conditions exist. The election of Senators Kennedy and Johnson over former Senators Nixon and Lodge may mark a shift in the balance of political power; transferring control of state organizations from state capitals and governors' offices to the men on capitol hill.

DISCORD IN THE GARDEN STATE — The New Jersey contest will be watched closely by other congressional and local politicians for the hearing it will have on their duels. It also commands interest and concern — because it involves such prominent figures as former President Eisenhower, former Vice President Nixon and former Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell. In a sense, it represents a challenge to any Eisenhower-Nixon claim for interim leadership of the GOP at the national level.

The New Jersey feud began when Sen. Clifford P. Case proposed Mitchell as the logical candidate for governor next year, and also declared that he was taking charge of the organization. He apparently felt justified in seizing the crown in a rather Newark way because he carried the state by 332,000, while Nixon lost it by a narrow margin.

Local leaders, especially Republican members of the legislature, bridled immediately. They noted that Mitchell, although a resident of New Jersey, had not shown any interest in state political affairs and was not acquainted with the problems.

THE WAR CHEST FIELDS UP — Former President Eisenhower became involved when he presented Mitchell with a $100 bill as the first contribution to his campaign treasury. Nixon's prompt endorsement of his former cabinet associate dragged him into the family fight.

Rather sourly, local politicians observed that they did not think Eisenhower was entitled or qualified to select their candidate for governor. Noting that Ike had been unable to help elect Nixon or to carry New Jersey for him, they said that they preferred to head-their-state-ticket with one of several state senators.

The New Jersey situation, although the first to break into the open, is not unique. It exists in several states where the local organizations, whether Republican or Democratic, have been unable to deliver locally or nationally, but where U.S. senators have swept to victory under their own power.

SENATORIAL TAILS WAG LOCAL DOGS — In New York, the national or Washington faction — former Senator Lehman, Eleanor Roosevelt and former Air Secretary Flinletter — seek to overthrow the De Stasio-Pendergast hierarchy. On the Republican side, Senators Javits and Kent defied the Goldwater conservatives which has many adherents in the Empire state, particularly among the old Taft wing who were so long frustrated by the Dewey forces in Albany.

In Illinois, Senator Douglas, who wins by tremendous majorities, though Kennedy carried the state by a mere 6,000 vote lead, is asserting himself more forcefully. Although his is a special case, President Kennedy has taken over in Massachusetts, and not entirely to the satisfaction of the state organization.

Vice President Johnson and Speaker Rayburn rule the ranch in Texas as do Senators Chavez and Anderson in New Mexico. Senator Byrd still runs the Virginia machine. Senator Hugh Scott has an important voice in Republican politics in Pennsylvania.

There is another interesting angle to this contest. In most instances, the Washington faction is far more liberal in its social and economic philosophy than the local opposition, with Senator Case as an outstanding example.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

OUR PRESIDENT

John Fitzgerald Kennedy today became the 35th President of the United States.

The final outcome of the election is disappointing to almost half of the American electorate and many persons are probably disturbed to the point of abject despondency. However, considering the compound of forces that supported Mr. Kennedy and his decimal-point margin of victory, the picture has a bright side, too . . . one which offers our country more than one reason to rejoice.

Regardless of his slim majority, Mr. Kennedy's election marked the end of an unbroken precedent of religious bigotry at the top level of American politics. At long last, it gave final expression to the principle of religious freedom, one of the cardinal principles that gave birth to our nation. His support came from a thoughtful intermingling of votes cast by free people of all denominations . . . even as did an overall ballooning of those who voted against him and who came within hair's breadth of defeating him.

This is a healthy phenomenon . . . it is healthy because as a result, our country is today closer to its ideals of freedom and tolerance than ever before in its history . . . and at a time when these ideals are of utmost importance to America as leader of the free world.

No longer is there an unwritten tradition to bar any qualified American, whether Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, from seeking and possibly attaining the highest office in our land.

Of this development all Americans should be equally proud.

The challenge presented to President Kennedy is not to stifle, confine or stretch the spiritual impacts of his faith . . . but to understand and interpret them correctly and translate them into action closely attuned to the highest obligations of his office.

He should be in all ways the best possible sort of Catholic . . . one with God in his heart, a clean conscience ruling his mind and the fair play of Christian principle directing each course of action he must choose in service to the American people . . . our fellow citizens in every walk of life. — Nampa Free Press.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

Local communities are facing the problem of increased competition for industrial development during the next few years. It may be difficult for Chambers of Commerce and Industrial Boards to sell their locations to industrialists due to the large number of expansions abroad and increasing competition from other American communities.

It is important that the people of every community which seeks to expand its industrial frontiers cooperate closely to provide the kind of industrial climate which will attract those with money to invest.

The most important single factor in drawing new industries is to have a community record of employee loyalty to employers. Where there is friction between employer and employee it is difficult to sell investors on the idea of establishing new industry. Therefore, it is extremely important that each community which desires full employment of its people, to establish and maintain good labor relationship. — Straubburg Northern Va. Daily.

DEAD FISH DEPT.

Dear Sir:

After careful consideration and exhaustive tasting, I have concluded Twin Falls' water doesn't taste much, if any, different from when it was coming out of Snake river.

However, all my research has convinced me the source of water is better, nevertheless. As I recall, it, the fish and game department cleaned all fish out of Rock creek a few years ago, then replaced the stream with trout only.

Hence, the water has to be better, even if all the fish have died this winter. There'd be no dead trash fish, just dead trout.

The trend in all professional education is to emphasize the underlying and scholarly fields and to diminish emphasis on "how to do it" courses. In our rapidly changing technology, no student can learn specifically how to do his job.

W

The professional student should be educated chiefly in the fundamental fields of knowledge, in habits of mind, methods of analysis and modes of attack upon the problems of his profession. Above all, he should learn to pursue on his own the lifelong process of education.

Offers two-year terminal programs for students not going on to a four-year college.

Enrollments in higher education will double by 1970. To provide a staff commensurate with this growth, we must increase enrollment by 200,000 annually.

If we are to get this number of qualified people, we must increase the output of our graduate schools.

States should expect these institutions to take care of perhaps 50 per cent of all who enter college for the first time.

The United States desperately needs men and women of high ability and advanced training. We cannot maintain our complex society nor sustain ourselves as a great nation without them. We should be producing 20,000 PhD's annually by 1970, compared with 9,300 in 1958-59, without a drop in quality.

If the graduate schools are to achieve the necessary expansion, they need more good applicants.

We are beginning to understand that true professional education takes place at the graduate level. Students headed for graduate professional education should spend their years in a liberal arts program, majoring in one of the scientific or scholarly subjects underlying their future profession.

Undergraduate schools that continue to emphasize vocational courses have a very important role to play as sub-professional technical schools for students not going on to full professional education.

The effective use of manpower requires substantial numbers of technicians and sub-professionals. Specialists who are as skilled at their level as the highest professionals continue their personal growth.

And during the 1960's all organizations in our society—social clubs, women's groups, labor unions, industrial concerns, fraternal organizations—should seek to discover how they may help their members continue their personal growth.

Gives Program
For Department

"A different kind of a pioneer" was the program presented by Mrs. Kurt Moss for the fine arts department of the Twentieth Century Club last week at the YWCA.

Mrs. Moss told of the history of her grandfather, the famous conductor, Arthur Nikisch. Nikisch was a child prodigy and was talented as a violinist and pianist as well as a conductor. His pioneering was in making known the works of Bruckner, Borodin, Rubenstein and Listz. He conducted the first performance of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut." Two of his most famous students were Koesselitzky and Gabrilovitch. Mrs. Moss also displayed pictures and books.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Ace Johnson, chairman. It was announced a nominating committee will be chosen before the February meeting. Mrs. John Detweller, club president, congratulated the department and ten committee on the decorations, attendance and choice of program. Hostesses were Mrs. Karl Brown, Mrs. George Forschler and Mrs. Eldon Stokes.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Children outgrow their clothes or fashion changes before they wear out. They are too good to be thrown away so the mother sorts them out and thinks about the disposal of them. To whom should they go?

Sometimes there are cousins in a distant town. Just about the same age and maybe the same size? So the bundle is packed and sent. If the mother who gets the bundle can make the things over to fit a child, that's fine. But if she can't or just doesn't think it important that a coat or dress fit its wearer, there is bound to be a most unhappy child.

We can talk until our tongue aches trying to tell a child, "That is a perfectly good coat. Many a child would be delighted to own and wear it. Suppose it is a little long. What does that matter? You'll soon grow up to it," and he will still feel terrible, still keep trying to hide behind a sheltering door. Either make the things fit or give them to somebody who will.

There are schools in this country, one I know in the southern hills, where there are children who need clothes. In such schools they can use all sizes, all styles because they have all sizes and all styles of children. Remember them.

In big families the clothes problem can make plenty of trouble. The mothers naturally want to pass-on-the-perfectly-good-outgrown clothes to the next size and that always makes the one who gets the hand-down feel put on and he is likely to voice his grief.

And make no mistake, it is real grief and requires comfort and sympathy. Also a few changes such

I. F. Woman Wins Honor At Audition

CALDWELL, Jan. 24 (Special)—An Idaho Falls mother of four children was named first place winner Saturday afternoon in the district audition of the National Council of Metropolitan Opera conducted for the second year at the College of Idaho, Caldwell.

Mrs. Jack Bowman was accompanied by her husband. She is a voice teacher and her husband is a piano teacher. She was graduated from Brigham Young university where she was a student of Dr. John Halliday, and she also studied voice with Mrs. Naomi Farr and Ingenuen Bentz, both Salt Lake City.

She has sung with the Community Chorus in Idaho Falls in its production of the Messiah for four years and she directs the LDS church choir there. A native of Malad, she lived in Pocatello for a year and the last four years in Idaho Falls.

Runner-up was Barry Charles Binning, Welser, who also will compete in the regional trials in Seattle. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. George Binning, with whom he is studying before continuing his musical education. He studied for four years with Glen R. Lockery at the University of Idaho. He has sung with the Spokane, Wash., Symphony Orchestra in its music festival as a winner of a young artist contest; was a member and soloist with the University of Idaho Vandaleers; a soloist in Anchorage, Alaska, with a community chorus, and was in three operettas during his Welser high school education.

While the judges placed Clark Ekberg-Nampa, in third place, they said they believe he has the most promise for the future. He is in his senior year as a voice major at the College of Idaho, where he is a student of Charles Ross.

The regional Metropolitan auditions will be conducted Feb. 18 and 19 at the University of Washington.

Judges were Lucille Lippincott, voice teacher in Boise and Twin Falls, and Marvin Blongquist, professor of voice and chorus-music at NNU.

Missionary's Letter Heard For Services

BURLEY, Jan. 24—A letter from the Rev. Robert L. Smith, missionary in Malaya, who was born and reared in the Minn-Cassia area, was read by Mrs. Leon Street, secretary of the commission on missions of the Burley First Methodist church, during the Sunday morning worship service.

The Rev. Mr. Smith expressed appreciation to the church for its pledge to $400 to help with his work. "Malaya is a very interesting country with many opportunities and problems. Right now, it is one of the world's leading producers of tin and rubber, and for this reason is quite important in the so-called cold war. The government of Communist China would be quite happy to trade many millions of their soldiers' lives for this country, if they could get it."

"They and the Russians, both need and want southeast Asia. This year, because of a serious crop failure, the Chinese will probably lose from 20 to 30 million people through starvation. They are desperate to get outside sources of food and raw materials."

He stated the government of Malaya is quite stable and nearly all of the Communist terrorists have surrendered, making it safe to drive on the roads anywhere in the federation.

Although the standard of living is not very good, it is high by Asian standards. The average pay for a man with a family is less than a dollar a day, if there is work, he asserted. If anything happens to the tin or rubber prices, the country would be in real trouble soon. This is one of the reasons Russians are working so hard on Borneo right now, the missionary stated.

The Rev. Mr. Smith is working with students at the University of Malaya who will be the future leaders of the country, Mrs. Street noted.

Mrs. Street reported his address is 26 Jalan University, Petaling Jaya, Malaya.

The Rev. Mr. Smith has two brothers who are ministers in this country. One brother, the Rev. Don Ian Smith, was pastor at the Burley church about 12 years ago and is now minister at Salmon.

The Rev. Edward E. Dixon conducted a dedication service for newly installed Methodist Youth Fellowship officers. They are Linda King, president; Con Anne, vice president; Judy Kikuchi, secretary, and Sherry Mullikin, treasurer.

The church will celebrate its 55th anniversary at a dinner program in the Fellowship hall at 6:30 p.m. next Sunday. Mack Crouch will be master of ceremonies. Frank Redfield will present a history of the church and community and Mrs. Charles Hendricks is working on a display of church and community pictures. The program will include two choral numbers by the senior MYF, a piano solo by Marilyn Pearson and a vocal solo by Russell Reynolds.

Joint Meeting Held by Clubs

KING HILL, Jan. 24—A joint meeting of the Busy Jolly Makers and the Bonne Bells 4-H clubs was held at the home of Mrs. John Parko last week.

Project books were passed out to each member and club assignments were given.

Phyllis McCleary gave a demonstration on how to set a table and Gloria Woodward demonstrated how to straighten an edge for hemming a tray towel. Both are members of the Busy Jolly Makers.

Vickie Curtis, member of the Bonne Bells, demonstrated the correct way to use measuring spoons and cups.

The clubs will meet jointly on the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Mrs. Frank Jones and Mrs. Parko were in charge of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Parko and her daughter Vickie Parko.

Duplicate Group Has Bridge Play

Twin Falls Duplicate Bridge club met Monday for Howell movement play at the American Legion hall.

Winners were Mrs. Ivan Skinner and Mrs. Paul Thoman, first; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook, second, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Suss, third.

Duplicate guest night will be held Monday at the Legion hall. All Duplicate members must play with non-members and players are asked to phone Mrs. Herbert Burgess for partners or information. All guests will be admitted free.

Assistant Named At Forest Office

Robert A. Williams began work Monday as the new administrative assistant at the Twin Falls Sawtooth national forest office.

He replaces John Karchner who was transferred to the Salmon national forest. Williams, who was graduated from Twin Falls high school, worked on the Salmon national forest before coming to Twin Falls.

Karchner, a native of Salt Lake City, worked at the local office a year and a half. He attended the University of Utah and Salt Lake City business college and has worked at the Salt Lake City base repair shop of the forest service, the Boise national forest and the Bridger national forest at Kemmer, Wyo.

The newly chartered Twin Falls chapter, Hi-Y club, elected officers at the club's organizational meeting Jan. 11, Clifton Schmid, group advisor, reports.

Elected are Dick Running, president; John Sackett, vice president; John Roper, secretary-treasurer, and Bruce Roberts, chaplain.

The purpose of the club, sponsored by the YMCA, is "to create, maintain and extend throughout home, school and community, high standards of Christian character," Schmid stated.

The club has scheduled a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Schmid's home. At this time they hope to determine membership policies and plan activities for the coming year.

Once organized, the group plans to set up a recreation program, a community service program and teach social etiquette and parliamentary procedures.

Speakers will be brought in at various times.
